La Follette Also on His Way to the Scene of Conflict Hurrying With All Speed.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 17.—With Taft and Roosevelt hammering away at each other with their old-time vim, La Follette hurrying from Chicago as fast as steam can bring him for the wind up of one of the most sensational campaign weeks this state has ever known, Ohio is watched today by politicians the country over.

Plain Talk.

Bellefonte, Ohio, May 17.—In a speech here today President Taft declared that much of the support now being given Col. Theodore Roosevelt in his fight for a renomination is coming from men indicted by the Taft administration.

Is Strident.

Chillicothe, Ohio, May 17.—"Our opponents are not the real republicans—we are," said Roosevelt today. "It was in a speech at Portsmouth that he made this statement. 'We're republicans, of whom our opponents speak as if we were not the regular republicans, are the men who are now true to the principles of Abraham Lincoln.'"

Two Boys Fall Into Feed Box In Stable and Perish in Its Contents.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 17.—The bodies of two boys, aged respectively six and four years, who mysteriously disappeared April 28, came to an end today when their bodies were found in a stable near their home here. The bodies were found in a feed box in the stable of which their father was in charge. It is believed the boys were playing around the stable, fell into the box head first and sinking into the feed perished. Their bodies were found by their father. There had been wild rumors that the children had been kidnapped and detectives run down clues which led to different cities.

Committee Named to Adjust Difficulties of Eastern Engineers Unable to Select Judges.

New York, May 17.—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railway, and P. A. Morphy, president of the Railway Employees' and Investors' society, two members of the arbitration board to settle the demands of the locomotive engineers in the eastern territory, have been unable to agree on the other five members of the arbitration board. Unless they do so by next Tuesday, Chief Justice White of the United States supreme court, Judge Knapp of the commerce court and United States Labor Commissioner Neill will select the remaining five members in accordance with the agreement made between the engineers and the railway management.

Jury Brings In Verdict Declaring Him Guilty of First Degree Murder of Prosecutor Foster.

Wytheville, Va., May 17.—Floyd Allen was declared today by the jury which tried him for the murder of Prosecutor William F. Foster, at Wytheville last March, to be guilty of murder in the first degree.

Floyd Allen, first of the Hillville mountaineers tried for the Carroll county court house murder, was adjudged guilty here today and will pay the penalty of his crime in the electric chair at Richmond. The jury was out all night and it was not until after ten o'clock this morning that the twelve men had been brought in to an agreement.

When court opened today the jury was called in and the foreman questioned by Judge Staples. The jurors declared there were a number of points of difference existing in the panel and it was doubtful whether a verdict could be reached. Judge Staples declared the jury had not been sworn to do other than to reach one conclusion—the guilt or innocence of the accused.

He said the jurors lost sight of that issue in any private individual opinion they would do wrong to themselves an intended violence to their obligation and grave injustice to the commonwealth or to the accused. The jury then retired and it was but a short time before announcement was made, an agreement had been reached.

Prisoner Not Informed of Governor's Refusal to Commute Sentence Until Today.

Boston, May 17.—Clarence V. T. Richeson, slayer of Avila Linnell, slept quietly in the cell at the death house at Charleston state prison last night, ignorant that the governor had refused commutation of his sentence. The announcement of the decision of the attorneys that he was sane, and the governor would not urge clemency would fall on either the condemned man's counsel, William A. Morse, the prisoner's chaplain, Rev. Herbert W. Strabbin, or his spiritual adviser, Rev. Herbert S. Johnson.

The execution of Richeson probably will take place early next week. There is a sentiment against a Monday morning execution as occurring too close after Sunday, which has been recognized by the warden of the prison. An execution may be made owing to the highly nervous state of the condemned and it is not improbable that Richeson may go to the chair Monday morning.

The case within the week of May 12 is entirely at the warden's discretion and only the legal witnesses will know beforehand at what time the sentence of the law will be carried out.

Large Crowd Attends Inquiry Into Titanic Disaster.—Fireman Gives Testimony.

London, Eng., May 17.—Lord Mersey, the president of the board of trade commission, his five assistant and an array of Great Britain's most brilliant attorneys, with an audience of fashionably dressed women looking on, spent the greater part of the day during the sitting of the court of inquiry into the Titanic disaster in probing the statement of Charles Hendrickson, one of the surviving firemen.

Hendrickson had said Sir Cosmo and Lady Duff-Gordon, who were two of the five passengers in a lightly filled lifeboat who protested against returning to the scene of the disaster to try to rescue some of those struggling in the water, Hendrickson struck to his testimony and although he could specify when he first made the statement absconding the Duff-Gordons, Sir Rufus Isaacs, the attorney general, was able to prompt from him depositions taken at the time of the arrival of the crew in England in which the witness had said "Passengers protested against the boat going back." Mr. Duke's questions indicated the case for the Duff-Gordons would be an absolute denial of the story and that they would support this with the evidence of the other member of the crew who were in the life boat.

Mr. Duke suggested that Lady Duff-Gordon refused to go into the boat without her husband and after the boat was lowered she was so unwell she was unable to protest. Hendrickson admitted she was ill, but said she was able to converse with her husband. Mr. Duke also suggested that Hendrickson was the first to hint at a rescue for the crew of the boat and produced a document in Hendrickson's handwriting giving the names of the crew which he had handed to Duff-Gordon to enable him to make up check of the value of $25 for each of them.

Remains of King Frederick Taken to Copenhagen Today on Royal Yacht For Funeral Ceremonies.

Copenhagen, May 17.—The Danish royal yacht Dannebrog, arrived at noon today at the Toldboden wharf near Amulienborg palace bringing the body of the late King Frederick VIII. from Trondheim. The coffin was borne ashore by 12 officers and placed in a hearse. A procession was then formed headed by a large force of cavalry. King Christian X. of Denmark, King Haakon of Norway and many other royal personages followed the hearse on foot. Then came carriages containing Dowager Queen Louise, Queen Alexandra and several of the princesses. On arrival at the chapel of Christiansburg castle the coffin was borne in by officers and placed on a catafalque. The members of the royal family for some minutes in silent prayer. Before leaving the chapel each kneeled the Danish flag which had been spread over the bier.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT, IN WHIRLWIND TOUR OF OHIO, DRAW ENORMOUS CROWDS—STATE SIZZLES WITH POLITICS FROM END TO END AS CAMPAIGN DRAWS TO A CLOSE.

OFF FOR OHIO.

Chicago, May 17.—Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin arrived here today on his way from California and stopped long enough to declare that he was headed for Ohio to take part in the primary campaign. Senator La Follette, it is declared, is determined to call on Roosevelt to publish a list of contributors to his campaign fund.

To Make Hard Fight.

Cleveland, May 17.—Refreshed by a comparatively quiet day here, President Taft left Cleveland early today to take up again his speech-making tour of the state. Friends of the President were confident that he was more determined than ever to make the struggle for Ohio's forty-eight delegates to the republican national convention as strenuous as possible.

Although Mr. Taft decided to decline reports published here that he might abandon the fight for a renomination if he should lose in the Ohio primaries, men close to him place no credence in such a report. They point to the fact that hundreds of delegates to the convention are recruited and pledged to Mr. Taft and that the Taft workers throughout the country have put up their best fight for him. They think also on the bitter resentment the president has shown toward Col. Roosevelt and few of them would concede that he would withdraw in favor of his predecessor. Talk of Mr. Taft's retirement from the race in favor of a dark horse in case he loses Ohio, is also discredited by his friends.

The president's schedule for today called for about a dozen speeches and with Toledo tonight.

Anti-Taft Faction.

Atlanta, Ga., May 17.—The anti-Taft faction of the republican party in Georgia will have a convention here today to select four delegates at large and four alternates to the national convention to contest the right of Taft delegates elected in March. It is understood the convention will instruct for Roosevelt.

Manitowish, May 17.—After one of the hottest fights ever known in the county board an appropriation of $2,000 to contribute aid to the revival of the county fair which was closed last year passed the board by a vote of 19 to 12 this morning.

County court judge and his aids from interfering with the Cook county democratic delegation April 15. ASK FOR A STATE LOAN TO BUILD SCHOOL HOUSE.

Willowdale District Held Meeting Last Night and Board Met With Mr. Antelod Today.

Members of the school board of the Willowdale district where the school building was destroyed by the cyclone of Nov. 11th, met at the office of County Superintendent Antelod this afternoon to prepare a petition for $1,000 in state money to constitute a loan for the construction of a new building.

A meeting was held of the district voters last night and the board was empowered to meet with Mr. Antelod and prepare the necessary papers to be forwarded to Madison at once. Should the district be unable to secure money from the state it is probable that arrangements would be made for the money with some private party. The contract for building will be let as soon as arrangements for the money are made. The school board is composed of Jas. Crane, J. L. Mooney and Louis Bowles.

MINNESOTA SUPREME COURT SUSTAINS COMMISSION LAW

St. Paul, May 17.—Commission form of government for Minnesota cities is perfectly legal and there is no clause in the state constitution which abridges in any manner the institution of the commission plan. This is the opinion of the state supreme court given today in a case wherein the validity of the Mankato commission government had been attacked.

MILWAUKEE WOMAN SEEKS TO RECOVER FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH FROM RAILWAY COMPANY.

Madison, Wis., May 17.—Asserting that the findings of the state industrial commission were fully substantiated by the evidence, the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company has filed its answer in the Dane county circuit court to the complaint of Mrs. Martha Neuman of Milwaukee, who sought to recover compensation for the death of her husband, Robert Neuman, a conductor. It was shown at the hearing that when the car ran off the track and he was killed, and that accordingly he was not outside of his employment as conductor. On this ground the industrial commission dismissed the woman's complaint. The street railway company now asks the court to approve these findings and to dismiss the court action. This is the first appeal taken from an award of the industrial commission.

MORE TESTIMONY GIVEN IN THE ARCHBOLD CASE.

Washington, May 17.—When hearing of charges against Judge J. W. Archbald of the commerce court was resumed today the house Judiciary committee Richard Bradley of Scranton, Pa., called operator testified that W. P. Boland, who made the charges against Judge Archbald had told him he thought the Kentucky coal dump was worth $25,000. Boland also first suggested to Bradley a view to negroes over the dump with a view to negroes thinking for its purchase from Williams and Archbald who then had the option.

RADICAL CHANGES PLANNED IN WOMEN'S CLUB CIRCLES.

BAFFLING MYSTERY IS STILL UNSOLVED

But Los Angeles Police Decide That Murdered Woman Is Either Mrs. Dillon or Miss McCoy.

Los Angeles, Calif., May 17.—Murdered for her diamonds and jewelry is the theory of police in this case of the unidentified woman found in a bungalow on Arlington street a week ago and who the police declared was either Mrs. C. Dillon or Miss Constance McCoy of Chicago. The woman and a man arrived here some time ago and registered as Mr. and Mrs. C. Dillon, Chicago. The woman then wore several diamonds and had considerable other jewelry. None of these valuables were on the body. A post card has been found near the Arlington bungalow addressed to Miss Constance McCoy and signed L. J. Denolon. The card bears the postscript Chicago, but the date was not clear.

W. Hall and Mrs. Mary Matthews, giving Mrs. Carr the title to 157 acres of land near Gary, Ind., and worth $235,000, by virtue of adverse possession for more than twenty years.

TWO HARBORS TO GET DESIRED COAL PLANT

Two Harbors, Minn., May 17.—Two Harbors is nearer the goal of its desire for a municipal coal plant than ever before. After securing Duluth and Superior coal interests of being in a trust, and after these companies had retailed that Two Harbors was shy of the price of the coal wanted, big coal dealers down the lake have announced that they are willing to "stake" the city to all the coal the city fathers want. The said city fathers have figured a saving to the populace of $1,500 a year.

SENATE FAVORABLE TO DODGE SUGAR BILL.

Washington, May 17.—The senate finance committee today authorized a favorable report on the Lodge substitute for the house free sugar bill, and an unfavorable report on the so-called Dodge proposed income tax bill which proposed increased tax on incomes in excess of $5,000 a year. The Dodge sugar bill would eliminate the differential and Dutch standard from the tariff and leave the duties otherwise practically as at present.

A MAN'S GOOD EXAMPLE IN BUYING USUALLY GETS NO FURTHER THAN GOOD INTENTIONS

By J. R. HAMILTON

Former Advertising Manager Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

And as you know, this is the material with which the entire Stygian City has been paved. When you rail at your wife for the money she spends, stop and think of the example you set. If she spent money with the same careless abandon with which you spend it, you would have to work nights to keep your pocketbook or your bank book in repair.

In this paper today is advertised practically all the merchandise you need of every kind. Furthermore you know that advertised goods are the cheapest goods, because you know that advertising is the cheapest method of selling goods.

Yet many of you will pay as much attention to the advertising as you would to a beggar at your elbow. In fact too many of you treat advertising as some unsightly beggar pleading for the attention of your eyes.

And therefore you deserve all you get.

The trouble is you don't take your own medicine. If you have anything to sell, you are more than eager to advertise it. You believe in advertising—for the other fellow. You are like that man Brown who felt that bloomers would be fine—on Jones' wife.

Now try a little of that medicine yourself today. If you are fine going to buy a hat, buy it from the latter who advertises here. That man is trying to build up his quality and pull down his price. It is the same with your shoe man and your clothier and every merchant, big and little, with whom you have to deal.

When a merchant tells you his goods are his advertisement, he is talking rot. Except in rare instances, any other merchant can get the same goods if he sell them cheaper by selling them faster.

Through advertising, any merchant can give you more for your money—if not in dollars, in service at least. Because advertising is the most economic way of selling goods. And most of the time the saving is in actual money.

The trouble is not with the advertiser but with you. If you won't look, he can't sell. Every time you buy an un-advertised article, you boost the price on yourself.

When you learn to buy through the advertising columns of this paper, your family will also learn and your bank account will increase.

And the time to begin learning is now. Here is the paper; here are the ads; read them. Buy from them, and don't be afraid to tell the merchant you saw them here.

REPORT OF PARCELS POST DENIED TODAY

Postmaster C. L. Valentine States He Has Received No Orders Regarding Establishment of Parcels Post on Rural Routes.

Reports of a ruling of the postmaster general regarding the establishment of a system of parcels post in the rural districts near the city at the local post office, were denied today by Postmaster C. L. Valentine. "We have received no word of such a ruling from the postoffice department and it is absolutely baseless, although an order may be issued by the postoffice department later. The report is evidently based on the bill recently passed by the House of Representatives, and which has been sent to the Senate, but until the passage of that bill the parcels post for the people on the rural routes will probably not be started. Before its passage, it must be passed by the Senate, where amendments will probably be made to the bill as passed by the House. The bill will then have to go back to the House for action on any amendments, before being presented to the President for his signature. In all probability the bill, if passed, will not be put through until almost the close of Congress.

MONTE CARLO GIRLS DRAW LARGE HOUSE

Elaborate Company Plays Before Well Filled House Last Evening at Myers Theatre.

Although the J. H. O. sign was not out at the Myers theatre last evening a well filled house greeted the appearance of the "Monte Carlo Girls Burlesque Co." The show was mostly of the vaudeville variety, including many little skits and a large number of chorus girls. A good looking bunch of chorus girls, with the addition of pretty costumes made a combination which drew the heartiest applause from the audience and every song and dance was encored again and again.

NOT SALTS, OIL OR PILLS BUT CASCARETS

No odds how sick your Stomach; how hard your head aches or how Bilious—Cascarets make you feel great.

You men and women who somehow can't get feeling right—who have an almost daily headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills, or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse and regulate the stomach; remove the sour, indigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—do good—never gripe or sicken.

You Do Read and Believe in Advertising

By W. C. KENAGA.

When you read the Gazette the statement of your favorite merchant concerning some article he has for sale you believe his statement—for you demand that the article be "just as advertised."

Thus you evidence your belief in advertising.

You believe in advertised goods because you know that neither a merchant nor a manufacturer can "push" an inferior article through advertising and hold your patronage.

You read advertising and buy advertised goods because you buy such articles confident that the reputation of the "house" is back of the advertising and the goods.

Paper From Cotton Stalks.

Cotton stalks, it is thought, may be used for the manufacture of paper. A machine has been patented which will separate the brown bark from the inner pith, and it is claimed that excellent paper pulp may be made from the latter. From the bark a substitute for excelsior is manufactured.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS by DAN McCARTY

"The little old man of the ring," they call him Johnny Conlon; Johnny's only twenty-three years old, but he looks thirty. Maybe it is his serious outlook upon life, maybe his sparse growth of hair. Anyhow, they call him the "old man," and in one sense, at least, he is fully deserving of the appellation. Johnny isn't old in body, but there is a very wise old head on his very young shoulders. That's why he continues to reign as the bantamweight champion of the world.

Every time Johnny goes into a fight he's conditioned. Also, he can always weigh in at 115 pounds at long time and retain all his strength and vigor. He keeps it, too, that his opponents make the same weight, and much of his success as a master fighter is due to this habit of never giving away a pound.

For five years, now, Johnny has ruled the roost in the bantamweight division, and it looks as if he will be good for five more.

Little Donnie Bush, of the Tigers, is covering more ground than ever this year and hitting in grand style.

"Rough stuff," says Jennings, commenting on the work of the White Sox this spring which has sent them way in the lead in the American League race.

"In our games against the Sox," the Tiger leader continued, "Kid Gleason and many of the players have always made it a point to try and bulldoze the umpire. Perrine, especially, has fallen for their bluffs. Few of the present White Sox were over on a fast team before and just at present they are all worked up by their enthusiasm. While things are breaking their way, they're bound to go along at a good lively clip. But wait until the other clubs begin to fight back. Think Chicago will drop back to the bunch, all right."

Hughes doesn't forget, though, to add a sportsmanlike word. "I know," he says, "that Chicago is a great ball town, and Jimmy Callahan's a fine fellow. I'm pleased to see the Sox playing winning ball, but I am hoping the umpires will make them cut out the rough work."

They keep on telling us from Chicago that Jack Johnson is doing real work to get into shape for this fight with Jim Flynn on the Fourth of July.

A Chicago sporting man who strayed into the sanctum of our Uncle Daniel the other day, had a rather different story to tell. He saw Johnson at home, did this man, and he also saw him last week in Chicago, and he says the champion is carrying around a sort of hay-window effect in front, and that layers of fat are apparent on his chest and brow.

My arm, he is far from being the jumbo Johnson that whipped Jeffries and it will take a world of good, hard training to put him in anything like condition, my informant says.

Preparations for the big combat with Flynn are meanwhile going busily on. Flynn is working industriously, and the nimble press agent daily pounds out yards of tempting bull on his trusty Remington.

Folks of Las Vegas and the great Southwest go blithely about their business, living in hopes of the golden harvest of liberal sponsors that is soon to come their way, providing, of course, the plans of Promoter Curley, Flynn, Johnson et al don't miss connections.

A STRANGE CIRCUMSTANCE.

History recounts many strange deaths of rulers of nations from the days of Caesar, stabbed to death by his ambitious fellow senators, falling at the base of the statue of Pompey, down through the ages to the sudden demise a few days ago of Denmark's aged and gentle ruler, Frederick VIII, who died alone on the streets of a city foreign to his native country, and whose dead body lay for hours in a hospital unidentified, like that of any other common mortal not born to the purple.

From the days of Saul, who fell on his own sword, Balaazar, slain in a sack in Babylon; Harold, last king of the English, slain at Hastings by the victorious army of William the Conqueror; Richard II, of England, slain by an arrow at Chalus; Richard III, murdered in prison; Richard III, slain at Bosworth Field; Louis the Saint of France, dying while on a holy crusade; Charles I, beheaded in London; Louis XVI, guillotined during the French Revolution; Alexander II, of Russia, blown up by a bomb; our own Lincoln dealt his death-blow while attending a theatre; McKinley shot down by a crazed anarchist.

Yet it remained for Denmark's ruler to die the strangest death of all, alone, unknown, on the streets of Hamburg, picked up by sympathetic strangers who saw an aged man drop to the pavement, hurried him to a hospital, where the body of one of Europe's ruling houses lay for hours unidentified, until discovered by searching relatives.

Truly, the power and glory of kings is unfulfilled in the sight of such a death. Brother of two Emperors, uncle of Kings, Denmark's ruler passed out of this life in the gloom of a German city as though of but common clay. No pomp attended his end. No sorrowing royal family awaited the end with bated breath. No heir apparent stood ready to be crowned that monarch might endure. Frederick is dead. Christian X, is king. "Vive Le Roi."

HAMMER AND TONGS.

Ohio is still the battlefield of politics. The sight of two republican candidates for presidential honors stamping the state from end to end, harranguing the voters in their own behalf, passing the lie to each other, praising their own endeavours in behalf of law and administration, is a sight not often witnessed even in American politics. It savors more of the methods of the Latin republics of the southland except that in those countries the presidential candidates march with armed men and light opera bouffe battle. The whole struggle will end at the Chicago convention in June when names will be counted and the records will show whether the claims of Taft or Roosevelt delegates are correct. Taft states that Roosevelt can not be nominated. Roosevelt pays the same honors to his bulky opponent and so the button is passed. Politics is a peculiar game at best, but the present struggle is one of the strangest fought in many a year in this or any other country.

SANITARY CONDITIONS.

City Health Officer Cunningham did all in his power to instill into the citizens of Janesville the necessity of a clean city for public health. Three days set aside for a thorough cleaning up of the entire city were held and much was accomplished, but some way or other the real results hoped to be accomplished were not successful, not through any neglect on the part of the health officer, but through total indifference of property-owners themselves. Unfortunately the city ordinances are not stringent enough in this respect and it might be well to have several new ones passed that would give the health officer more power with restrictions and penalties for property-owners who violate the provisions. It is essential that Janesville, especially in the down town districts, be clean and sweet, and to accomplish this care should be taken that garbage piles are not permitted to collect, that refuse is not dumped into alleys to breed contagion, and sanitary conditions in public buildings be sufficient for the needs.

LOCAL POLITICS.

With the official announcement at the conclusion of the last regular session of the legislature that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself in the state senate, John M. Whitehead has paved the way for a contest for his seat, which he has so ably filled for the past decade and more. Already three candidates have appeared in Rock county alone, with the possibility of one or two more making their bow to the public within a short time. The legislature, in re-apportioning the senatorial district added the county of Walworth to that of Rock, and divided the assembly districts of Rock into two instead of three counties, as formerly. This complicates matters and it is possible that Walworth county will play a most important part in the naming of the next state senator.

If present plans for public amusement in Janesville do not miscarry the coming summer promises to be a busy one for Janesville residents. The opening events come on Decoration day, and then follows other plans for public gatherings right through to cold weather.

The old-time green goods man has a new game. He only has to invent a machine that turns out five new crisp bills for three old worn-out ones and he can soak any kind of a sucker. The gold brick, the patent padlock and the green goods are back numbers these days.

Champ Clark was thought to be a stalking horse for Underwood, but some way or other he of the "Houn Dawg" song is winning delegations right under the noses of men thought much stronger by the democratic leaders.

The demand for the repeal of the income tax law and other obnoxious state legislation of the past decade is becoming so strong throughout the state that perhaps the next legislature may do something about it.

Nothing seems to be growing in the gardens thus far but weeds and grass. The average gardener would like to have a few days of warm sunshine for a change.

TRIED FOR SANITY;
DEFENDS OWN CASE

Cullen W. Goldsworthy of Beloit Conducts Own Case Before Jury in County Court Today.

Charged by his wife and two sons of being insane, Cullen W. Goldsworthy of Beloit appeared before Judge Sale in the county court this afternoon and defended his own case after insisting yesterday that he be accorded a jury trial.

Sheriff Hanson went to Beloit yesterday on the complaint of Mrs. Goldsworthy and Adam and Joseph Goldsworthy, sons of the defendant. He was brought before Judge Sale late yesterday and demanded a trial by jury. A jury was accordingly drawn as follows: O. D. Bates, Wallace Cochran, J. H. Jones, William McVicar, George Turk, and S. A. Warner. Goldsworthy asked permission to conduct his own case and it was granted him.

Dr. A. C. Helm, Beloit, was the first witness called this afternoon and on being questioned by District Attorney Dunwiddie, stated that the defendant, in his opinion, was over excited, subject to hallucinations, and was not possessed of a normal mind. He had come to these conclusions after he had examined Mrs. Goldsworthy. He stated as one of the hallucinations under which the defendant was laboring was that he was employing a large number of men so that the expense of labor and material to build $75 to $100 a day. The facts, Dr. Helm stated, did not show this to be a fact.

The sons of the defendant, Adam and Joseph Goldsworthy, testified against their father. They told of instances which they believed tended to show that Mr. Goldsworthy was of unsound mind. One of these as related by Adam Goldsworthy, was that his father had asked Mrs. Goldsworthy to hold a wash basin while the defendant cut his throat. He had the instrument in his hand ready for the operation at the time, according to the testimony.

In conducting the cross-examination, Mr. Goldsworthy showed some tendency on several occasions to discuss matters with the witnesses, but the court and prosecuting attorney were intent, recognizing that the defendant lacked knowledge of the rules of evidence and legal procedure.

An Essay on the Mule.

The mule is one of the most interesting of our dumb brutes. It has often been said that he has no pride of ancestry and no hope of posterity and, judging by some of our and yours, he ought to be mighty glad of it.

Mules are divided into two general classes, optimists and pessimists. The optimistic mule is a thing of beauty and a joy forever and when he lifts his voice in song it can be likened to nothing in this world but Wagner's superbly delightful "Gottentruener" rendered on a willing, still sounding, phonograph in the still reaches of the night. It is needless to say much concerning the pessimistic mule. Most people have met him before, and those who have not him before are much sicker than those who have met him before.

The mule has been greatly maligned on account of the fact that he has large ears and he cannot deny the soft impeachment. However, he never tells what he hears or adds a little to it to make it sound good. In this he has it on certain human beings several different ways. Thinking it all over, the mule is not such an undesirable citizen after all for what he lacks in culture, refinement and education he makes up in minding his own business.

According to Uncle Abner.

There is some question as to whether there are some more men or women artists, but it always seems as though a feller sees more women who paint.

William Thibbs, one postmaster, has been layin' in Swazey Creek three days tryin' to soak off a mustard plaster which his wife put on his back about two months ago. The postoffice has been closed during that time, but he expects to have it open in a day or two so that the regular patrons can get their pictor postcards and mail order catalogs.

Just as soon as a woman says she is a perfect lady you begin to think there is something wrong with her. The 1915 model automobiles ought to be on the market now in a week or two, the 1914 models having been on sale for about a month.

"Twas when I monkeyed with a mule's hind leg. Since then I've had no wild desire to fly. Let others seek to aviate, not I.

Experience one spring day filled me full of knowledge on the follies of the bull. Attired quite gaily in a bright red shirt I made right there my record breaking spurt. He chased me 'round the lot three times to gore.

And then he chased me 'round fifteen times more. Advice I had received that very spring in fulsome doses on that selfsame thing.

Experience since then I've reckoned by. Let others win the Marathon. Not I.

There--and Here:

There's a store somewhere that has good merchandise, but it's the dearest, dullest, dreariest looking place from the outside you ever saw. Not much better inside. "I feel as if they don't want me in there," said a woman who had been visiting in the city we have in mind. They don't. They want only people who come to buy and who know what they're after. No lookers; no visitors; no guests. How is it here? The door is open; the windows invite you. We're glad to see anyone whether they come to look or buy—always. The store is more than a private business. It's a public institution supported by the people's patronage — of course; all the more reason that it should be as free and open as the postoffice.

Evansville Woman Succumbs at Six O'clock Last Evening After a Week of Suffering.

INQUISITIVE POLICE-CAT RESENTS INTERFERENCE OF TWO YOUNG LADIES.

Animal Disturbed While Investigating Poultry Quarters Causes a Near-Riot.

Evansville, May 17.—A police-cat is a disagreeable animal at best but when he takes it into his head to become troublesome he can start more excitement in a minute than an ordinary being can in an hour. Two Evansville young ladies can testify to the truth of this.

Mr. Police-cat is extremely fond of chickens and a particular specimen was on a tour of investigation Wednesday afternoon with the evident idea of locating a fat young cockerel for Sunday dinner. He was busily engaged in looking over the possibilities of a certain poultry house in this city when he was surprised by the appearance of two young ladies. He resented this intrusion. He required no assistance in selecting a toothsome fowl and he determined to let those inconsiderate young ladies know it. With a moment's hesitation to consider the consequences, he gave chase. Then the mischief started. Loud cries of alarm from the young ladies thus surprised, soon called a crowd to the scene. But alas, it was the undoing of Mr. Police-cat which demonstrates the advisability of thinking before acting.

Only Made It Worse.

Harry was taken out to dinner for the first time in his life. His mother kept him at her side, because his mother was wise woman. But he acted like a perfect little gentleman until the dessert course. Then his mother found occasion to reproach him. "Harry!" she exclaimed, in such a loud whisper that everybody at the table could hear it, "what do you mean by wiping your spoon on your napkin? You never do that at home!" "No, mamma," answered Harry, in an even louder whisper, "but at home we always get clean spoons."

A citizen of Iowa whose wife eloped with another fellow received notice from a neighboring city that the couple had arrived there. He promptly telegraphed: 'Don't arrest the runaways; have decided to let them go to the devil.'—Kansas City Star."

company and is always one of the much-looked-for events of the season, and from all reports, a large audience will be in evidence at the Myers theatre this evening.

The play to be presented this evening is the three-act farce comedy, "Ein Glücklicher Familienvater," and is a scream from start to finish. Don't fail to see this excellent company this evening at the Myers theatre and you will be more than pleased with the performance.

Gas From Peat.

The production of gas from peat having a low water content (up to about 20 per cent.) for use in suction gas (anagass) engines has already met with success in Germany, but for a number of years efforts have been made to utilize peat with a water content as high as 60 to 80 per cent; and thus eliminate the costly process of drying the raw material.

ENGINEERS WARNED TO INSPECT SIDE RODS

Master Mechanic Hall Draws Attention to the Necessity of Examining Side Rods for Flaws.

Master Mechanic E. B. Hall writes that several times lately side rods have broken on Class D engines, causing much damage to the engine and delaying trains, which might have been avoided by proper inspection of the rods before leaving the roundhouse. In every case the accident was the result of a flaw in the rod which rigid inspection would have brought to light and saved a great deal of time and money. Mr. Hall urges that all engineers should give their engines a particular inspection in this regard to prevent a repetition of the trouble whenever possible.

Two firemen and two engineers are bulletproof for runs 288 and extra between Fond du Lac and Butler, and the applications will be received for several days yet.

The state inspector has passed the interlocking plant at Buffalo and trains are now allowed to go over it at normal speed. They will be governed by the signal indications and everything will be running in a regular manner within a few days.

While pulling up an air pump onto engine 1553 by means of a block and tackle yesterday afternoon, Pipeman Haddow had a narrow escape from getting seriously injured when the rope broke and the heavy pump fell about eight feet to the ground. It luckily happened that he was standing out from underneath the heavy piece of steel, but as it was it came so close to him that he looked sick the rest of the afternoon. When he had recovered from the jump he took Mr. Haddow proceeded to the storeroom in search of a two-inch wire cable to pull up the pump with.

The third and last of the trains of condensed milk which stopped in the local yards yesterday was sent out on 84 last night for parts unknown.

An extra was taken to Fond du Lac this morning at 10:09 o'clock by engine No. 1332 in charge of Engineer Srigano and Fireman Wiley.

Arrangements have been made to have the telephones moved into the storekeepers' office from the caller's office and the change will be made tomorrow. Owing to the noise in the caller's office coming from the shops and the house it is hard to hear anything there and it is thought that the storekeeper's office is a better place anyway.

William Sullivan and his brother Edward are spending a few days visiting in Chicago and taking in the sights of the big city. At last reports they had purchased three gold bricks and Grand avenue.

The installation of steam heat in the car-department has been completed since Wednesday night and Whitebread has been trying to fix up a fan ever since.

Some of the machines in the shop are being overhauled and parts renewed by Mechanic Harold Dullin.

Owing to the fact that the cistern on the north side of the machine shop is overflowing, with the cover floating around on top the walls are going to be raised. A car load of sand has been dumped by the engine room in preparation and Tom Readson's gang will go to work on it in a few days. The wall will be raised about four feet.

Under the direction of Pheman Haddow the re-rolling of the stationary boilers was completed today and will be put into operation tomorrow. During the time that the boilers have been out of commission power has been taken from the big new engine which is in storage at the local round house and stationary Engineer Port Bennett has been running it instead of the other. He will no have to go back in his den where he spent the winter.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new block system between here and Evansville and the gang in charge of the construction of the arches will probably reach here before long. They are at present about four miles outside of Janesville.

Purple Top Turnips—50c bushel.

Extra the large strawberries are the feature of today's fruit market. These berries are being put up in large size boxes and are the best that have been seen on the local market this year. Owing to the bad weather that has been prevailing for some time the vegetable crop has not been as good as was looked for but with some warm weather the home grown products will be coming into the market within a short time. Another feature of the market that was noticed today were some fresh silver-ekin onions.

METHODS OF SUGAR MAGNATES EXPOSED BY WITNESS AT TODAY'S HEARING IN COURT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, May 17.—The alleged methods pursued by the sugar refiners' companies to gain and obtain control of the sugar industry in America were described today by Julius A. Starnberg, up to 1887 treasurer of the Brooklyn Sugar Refining company. Mr. Starnberg said that although the refinery company's trustees held the stock in the Brooklyn company, that concern was permitted to run its own affairs with the exception of fixing its outputs. This was fixed by the trustees, he said. Those trustees also instructed other companies whose stock they held as to how much sugar they could produce.

SERIOUS STABBING AFFRAY AT MADISON

Austrian Thrusts Knife into Three of His Countrymen—Local Police Asked to Watch for Guilty Man.

Chief of Police Shanessy of Madison telephoned Chief of Police Appleby this morning that an Austrian resident stabbed three of his countrymen there last night and succeeded in making his escape. He is supposed to be headed for Detroit and the police were given a description and asked to keep watch for him. All of the stabbed are in a serious condition, one so seriously that he is not expected to live. The assailant struck him in the abdomen, inflicting a large open wound. The man wanted is described as being about thirty years old; five feet, six inches tall; heavy set; dark hair and complexion; dark mustache; and having peck marks on his face.

She related the early history of that region, dealing especially with the Indians, and spoke of the conditions of the present day red men.

FOSS FOR LONGER CONGRESS TERM

George Edmund Foss.

George Edmund Foss, Republican congressman from Illinois, who asked recently as to his attitude on the movement to make the presidential term six years, replied: "I can say most emphatically that I am in favor of a change in the constitution covering the tenure of presidents of the United States. I would lengthen the term. I think the presidents should be ineligible to reelection forever. I believe that the tenure of members of the house of representatives should also be increased from two years to either three or four, preferably the latter figure. It might be wise, however, to elect only half the house biennially, so that changes in the complexion of the popular body would not be so violent as they have been in past years, thereby keeping in office experienced legislators, while at the same time furnishing a sufficient margin of change every two years to print an index of popular sentiment to the legislators."

Janna Oliver Curwood, author of the novel, "Flower of the North," tells the following story in support of his claim that the unsophisticated Indian is the best friend on earth. When traveling from the barren lands Mr. Curwood and an Indian hunter, Mukoki, whose life he had once saved, came across the skeleton of a fine moose, the author expressed his regret that they were too heavily laden to carry the magnificent antlers back with them. Months later a package arrived for Mr. Curwood in the Detroit custom house. In it were the horns cut from the moose. Mukoki had traveled back two hundred miles into the wilderness with dogs and sleds to do this favor for a friend.—Harper's Bazar.

GENTLE REPROOF MOST SUCCESSFUL

How St. Peter Was Punished For Denying His Lord.

Some Mistaken Methods Called to Attention Regarding Evangelistic Work. Undershepherds Admonished to Feed the Flock of God.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—"Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou Me more than these?"—John xxi, 15-17. The context shows that these words were addressed by the Master to St. Peter on the occasion of the third manifestation to His disciples after His resurrection. This was presumably three or four weeks after the Master's resurrection from the dead.

During all those thirty days the mental attitude of all the Apostles and the other disciples can be better imagined than described. They were perplexed; they had had evidences of the Master's resurrection; they had had the Scriptures called to their attention which proved that this was necessary and that God had previously so arranged. They had hoped for further conferences with Jesus and that He would tell them definitely what to do.

Instead, left to themselves, they were thoroughly disheartened. They had left all to follow Him, to tell the people that He was the long-promised Messiah, and that He would soon set up His Kingdom, which would bring blessing to Israel, and, through Israel, to all the families of the earth, in harmony with the Abrahamic Covenant. Now apparently all these hopes were dashed.

They Told All Night.

Their first night was a discouraging one—they caught nothing. In the morning they beheld a stranger on the shore. The stranger suggested casting the net on the other side of the boat. And although the suggestion seemed foolish, having been so unsuccessful, yet they did so, and immediately the net was filled with fishes! It did not require long for them to learn the lesson. They knew instinctively that the unknown stranger was their Master.

All interest had just centered in the fishing business, but now boats, fish and nets all lost their value in the estimation of these fishermen! Here was their risen Lord, for whose third appearance they had been waiting now nearly three weeks! Dreading that the Master would disappear before he could get to Him, St. Peter plunged into the sea and swam ashore. To his surprise the stranger already had fish, and had them cooked, and all were invited to join in the breakfast on the shore of Galilee.

The stranger had not the clothing by which they had known their Lord, neither did He have the marks of the nails in His hands and feet, that they might thus identify Him. This was a different manifestation. They knew Him as did those with whom He walked to Emmaus who recognized Him in the breaking of the bread, and not by His features or clothing or wounds. They recognized that none other than He could perform such a miracle.

"Lovest Thou Me More?"

The stranger addressed St. Peter particularly, saying, "Lovest thou Me more than these?"—these boats and nets? St. Peter answered, "Lord, Thou knowest that I affectionately love Thee." He used a word expressing fondness of love. Jesus replied, "Feed My lambs."

Then came the question a second time, "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou Me?" A great pressure was felt by St. Peter. Why did the Master so particularly question his love? St. Peter answered, "Lord, Thou knowest that I affectionately love Thee." Jesus this time replied, "Feed My sheep." For the third time Jesus said to Peter, "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou Me?" Here Jesus used the same word that St. Peter had used, as though He questioned the affection and depth of St. Peter's love. Ah! the third time must have sent the memory of Peter back to the scene in Pilate's Judgment Hall, when he denied his Master the third time. And now Jesus for the third time had asked him respecting his love, and whether it was really a love of affection! St. Peter's choking reply was, "Lord, Thou knowest all things! Thou knowest that I affectionately love Thee!" The Lord's reply was, "Feed My sheep."

Our Mistaken Methods.

Have not Christians in general overlooked this important lesson, namely, that the chief work of the ministers and undershepherds of the Lord's flock during this Age is to "feed the flock"? Is it not true that comparatively little feeding is being done? On the contrary, the thought usually received by new converts is, Now you are saved, go, evangelize, and bring others to Christ—especially bring money, for with plenty of it we can convert the world.

The advice to St. Peter should be heeded. The "lambs" should be fed until they become "sheep." The sheep should be tended, cared for, guided, instructed; and the sheep should also be fed with the stronger "meat" than that which the lambs could appropriate.

The Old Law and the New Life. Matt. vi:17-20.

Golden Text—He that loveth his neighbor hath fulfilled the law. Rom. xiii:8.

(1.) Verses 17-18—In what sense did Jesus mean that the law was not to be destroyed until all be fulfilled?

(2.) What, if any, reason is there to believe that Jesus did not mean that the law of Moses was to last forever?

(3.) How did Christ fulfill every " jot and tittle" of the law of Moses, spiritual, moral, political and ceremonial?

(4.) Verse 19—What was the final end, purpose or object of the commandments of Moses?

(5.) If a disciple of Christ at that time had taught against the least of the Old Testament commandments, what would he have lost thereby?

(6.) If a disciple of Christ now teaches against the keeping of the ceremonial law or the moral law as exemplified by the "eye for an eye" and the "tooth for a tooth" commandments of the Old Testament, how does God regard him?

(7.) Verse 20—What did Christ mean by "the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees?"

(8.) If a man does an outward good deed for the sake of custom or policy or to be seen of men that he would not do from his own choice, how is his deed regarded by God?

(9.) How would you characterize two men, one whose motives are pure, but who blunders in carrying them out, and one whose motives are impure, but who nets outwardly in a faultless manner?

(10.) Does righteousness consist in motives or in actions, and why? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(11.) Verses 21-22—The law of Moses, like human law now, could only punish when an outward crime had actually been committed. How does the law here given by Jesus differ from that?

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

THE GREAT BATTLE OF MAUVILLE.

By A. W. MACY.

"Never was there fought a more hotly contested or bloodier battle on American soil than that of Mauville, (the ancient Mobile), on October 18, 1540.

On the one side was DeSoto and a few hundred followers, armed with guns and protected by armor. On the other were many thousands of Indians, armed with bows and arrows and such like primitive weapons. To the Spaniards defeat would mean annihilation; while the Indians fought with the desperation born of a determination to drive out the invaders or perish in the attempt. All through the afternoon they fought hand to hand, the Spanish soldiers charging gallantly, the Indians rushing upon them with sublime indifference to death. But discipline and steel prevailed, and the Indians were overwhelmed by the terrific onslaughts of the Spanish cavalry. When darkness fell, the streets of the Indian village were literally piled with Indian corpses. But DeSoto paid dearly for his victory, for forty-two of his devoted followers lay dead, and the survivors carried 1,700 wounds that needed a surgeon's care.

OLIVE OIL.

Under the Pure Food Law all oil made from olives is pure olive oil, yet there is as much difference in olive oil as there is in butter.

Cheap olive oil is made from olives that through cause of decay, insects or storms fall to the ground. Sound, healthy olives stay on the trees until ripe, like our apples. They are then gathered, the oil pressed without heat. This is virgin olive oil. The second pressing is obtained with steam and hot water, which is known as the table oil. The rich flavor and medicinal properties are found only in the virgin oil which is of a greenish-yellow color. It is very nutritious. Used in nervous diseases is a mild laxative; has a great reputation as a remedy for stones in the bladder, and is a skin food and complexion beautifier through its action on the liver. The supply of this virgin oil is always limited. It is quickly bought up for medicinal purposes and found only in drug stores. Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, personally tests our olive oil. You are therefore positive of obtaining the true virgin oil imported direct from Southern France. We sell it at 40c one-half pint, 75c a full pint bottle. Get it at our store, The Linder Drug Co., Milwaukee & River streets. The Drug Store that makes a specialty of Drugs.

Men Don't Do Such Things.

Have you ever known a man who had the nerve to put on the suit in which his grandfather was married?

Mrs. Alice Husevelt Longworth.

One of the most beautiful and most popular of the younger women at the capital is Mrs. Alice Husevelt Longworth, wife of Representative Longworth, of Ohio. Mrs. Longworth isn't a believer in the formalities which hedge so many of those in the government set in by their strict requirements and observances. If invited to

Afraid the Mule Would Enlist.

At the last encampment of the state militia at Fort Riley several of the regiments were on dress parade and the occasion brought out a large number of spectators, among whom was a farmer boy, mounted on an old mule, who was gazing, open mouthed, at the soldiers. As one regiment passed close to the boy the mule became frightened and started backing. A young officer, thinking to start some fun, called out: "What's the matter, son? Afraid he will run away?" "Naw," returned the boy, "I'm afraid he'll enlist."—Kansas City Star.

From a Shakespearean Heroine.

Break an hour's promise in love! He that will divide a minute into a thousand parts and break but a part of a thousandth part of a minute in the affairs of love, it may be said of him that Cupid hath "clipped him of the shoulder, but I'll warrant him heart whole."—Rosalind.

Beliefs About Lightning.

There is a popular tradition that lightning will not kill any one who is asleep. According to one school, the splinters of a tree struck by lightning are an infallible specific for the toothache. An amusing superstition used to be cherished by the boys of a Yorkshire (Eng.) village, who believed that if they mentioned the lightning immediately after a flash the seat of their trousers would be torn out. No boy could be induced to make the experiment.

Mosaic Precautions.

No one can fail to be impressed by the careful hygienic precautions of the Mosaic period. For example, consider how animals were divided into the clean and the unclean, the reason for this being that the priests, in preparing them for sacrifice, noted the presence of parasites in the flesh or inside of certain animals which were therefore to be avoided.

A PERMANENT CURE FOR CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

Although those may dispute it who have not tried it, yet thousands of others, who speak from personal experience, assert that there is a permanent cure for chronic constipation. Some testify they were cured for as little as fifty cents, years ago, and that the trouble never came back on them, while others admit they took several bottles before a steady cure was brought about.

The remedy referred to is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been on the market for over a quarter of a century and has been popularized on its merits, by one person telling another. The fact that its strongest supporters are women and elderly people—the ones most persistently constipated—makes it certain that the claims regarding it as a permanent cure for constipation have not been exaggerated.

It is not violent like cathartic pills, salts or waters, but operates gently, without gripping and without shock to the system. It contains tonic properties that strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with and nature is again solely relied on. Among the legions who testify to these facts are Mr. Herbert Timm, 342 Idaho St., Oshkosh, Wis., and Caroline Maynard, Chaffield, Minn., and they always have a bottle of it in the house, for it is a reliable laxative for all the family from infancy to old age.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postcard will do.

CROPS SHOW EFFECT OF BACKWARD SPRING

Report of Secretary MacKenzie Shows Crop Condition Only 88 Per Cent as Good as 1911.

Crop conditions in Wisconsin this year are only 88 per cent as good as they were at a similar time last year, according to a crop report issued by Secretary J. C. MacKenzie of the state board of agriculture on Thursday.

The average of the eight principal crops of the state is 94 per cent of that of 1911. This is the first crop report of the year.

Advises show, says the report, a general backward condition throughout the state. Clover, alfalfa and winter grains have been killed in many sections of the state. Pastures alone are good. In the northern part of the state spring seeding is not finished.

The condition of the eight principal crops as compared with that of last year at this time is as follows: Winter wheat, 91 per cent winter rye, 87; spring wheat, 90; spring rye, 82; oats, 101; barley, 102; clover, 94; timothy, 96.

Crop conditions, compared with 1911 are shown as follows: Winter wheat, 84 per cent; winter rye, 91; clover meadows, 84; timothy meadows, 88; alfalfa, 82; pastures, 86.

Complaints of poor seed corn comes from many sections of the state. Following are representative reports from various sections of the state:

Crawford county—No noticeable damage from frost, plenty of moisture, good pastures. Dunes—Conditions fair generally. Dodge—Clover winter killed in some sections. Door—No alfalfa, vegetation backward, but promising.

Eau Claire—Heavy soils, too wet for cultivation. Fond du Lac—Alfalfa in good condition. Grant—Pastures fine but slow, oats not all in. Jackson—No frost, pastures and meadows never better.

Langlade—No frost, alfalfa stood winter well, pasture good. Milwaukee—All winter wheat, clover and alfalfa killed. Monroe—Fruit trees in good condition on high ground, buds not far enough advanced to be harmed.

Ozaukee—Everything fine, but late. Pepin—Seedling of small grains late. Portage—All grain and grasses came through in fine shape. Price—Little damage to winter grain. Richland—Good rains since May 5. ## GIVE INSTRUCTIONS TO SCHOOL BOARDS

Circulars Sent Out to Inform in Regarding to Teachers' Retirement Fund.

The 7,300 school boards in the state of Wisconsin received their first instructions this week in relation to the teachers' retirement fund which is just being put into operation. A circular blank was sent to every school board asking the name of the teacher and whether she has elected to come under the provisions of the law. These reports do not come back directly to the state office of the teachers' retirement fund in this city, but are sent in duplicate to the county superintendent and the town, city and village treasurers.

While Miss Elizabeth Herfurth of Madison, who has charge of the teachers' pension bureau in the state outside of Milwaukee, was unable to give any accurate information of the number of teachers who wish to come under the law, she does admit that the reports already received have more than met expectations. Because of the necessity of preparing blanks in order to secure the reports from teachers and other officials who assist in administering this statute, little attention has yet been paid to the routine filling of the blanks of applicants. Miss Herfurth said today that the teachers have until next September to elect to come under the law. For the first ten years one percent of their salary is retained by the school board and sent to the town, village or city treasurer, as the case may be.

This recipient in turn sends the money to the county treasurer, who likewise transmits it to the state treasurer. After the first ten years, if the teacher is still complying with the law, a two per cent tax is retained for the remaining ten years. If, however, during the first ten years she demands a settlement she is paid one-half of the amount she has paid into the fund.

Within the past few weeks hundreds of circular letters have been sent to the county superintendents of the state to be mailed by them to all the teachers under their direction. These letters give information about the purpose of the law so that the teacher may have a full understanding of it before electing to come under its provision. A great many reports, however, have been received from teachers who did not get blanks and those are now being mailed out. This law applies only to teachers outside of Milwaukee city, which has a teachers' retirement fund of its own.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

THE BUNGALOW.

By Howard L. Rann.

The bungalow is an open fireplace entirely surrounded by a large room and weather-stained shingles. It represents a style of architecture that is highly popular with people who have grown tired of furnishing free pasturage to relatives who never know when to let go. The original bungalow was an adoption of the sectional book case and was generally packed away in the wooded undergrowth of the arrival of the heated room, when it was loaded into a wheelbarrow and set up in some mossy retreat, where the automatic stinger of the lake mosquito would not be interfered with by anything except cobweb hoars. The modern bungalow, however, is set into the ground, within easy reach of a hot-air furnace, and when surrounded by army tents will accommodate an entire family in perfect comfort. Some people who are not able to look ahead and see into the future build bungalows which are equipped with a spare bedroom, and wake up in later years to find themselves saddled with a very tedious brand of company. The bungalow makes an irrefragable appeal to women who wish to be emancipated from the accursed bondage of the vacuum cleaner and the irritating presence of the dusting rag, as a man and his wife keep house in one for years without any kitchen utensils except a can opener and a set of Emerson's canys. This is why the bungalow is making the brown stone front look about as popular as an inquisitive surgeon in the United States senate. The average bungalow is one-third living room and two-thirds porch, although occasionally a humble apology for a kitchen is tacked on. The bungalow kitchen is usually mislaid by the architect until the last minute, and is invariably so choked for room that the lady of the house has to back out into the garden in order to turn around. The bungalow is sometimes derisively called a summer cottage, and people who have lived in one during a wet summer, surrounded by open-pored mosquitoes and the monotonous chant of the male bullfrog, are generally willing to make a reasonable discount for cash.

Age and Marriage

A CORRESPONDENT writes to know if it is advisable for a man to marry a girl ten years his junior, especially as she is quite young, little more than a school girl. He states that he wants to settle down and that she attracts him more than any other girl he knows. It is rather a lukewarm statement of the situation, but no doubt he feels more deeply about it than he cares to put on paper. But the man who marries simply because he wants to settle down is thinking more of a comfortable chair and easy slippers than he is of the finer joys of married life, the love that glides all things with the purest joy, the true companionship that means everything to the journey along life's highway. To make these from marriage is to miss all that marriage means.

But the question of age is the principal one that is bothering him. And the difference in years between them, as he describes it, is a serious matter.

Ordinarily a difference of ten years between man and wife would not be a matter to cause much concern. Age after all, is a matter of temperament and not years. A woman of twenty-five and a man of thirty-five need not be so very far apart; and as they grow older, they grow closer together, irrespective of years. Many a man of thirty is older than many a woman of forty. Some people never grow old, and some are never young. Actual years have little to do with actual age. They are a man-made institution, and age is a thing of the spirit. Or rather, like Newton and heaven, it is a state of mind.

But when it comes to marrying a girl of sixteen or seventeen, this is quite another matter. A girl of sixteen or seventeen is too young to marry, no matter what the age of the prospective husband. The tastes and aims of a girl of sixteen are not yet formed. She doesn't know herself, she doesn't know what she wants of life, she doesn't know what sort of woman she will be at twenty-five. And it is not fair to her to marry her at sixteen when her judgment is so immature.

All may go well. She may love her husband very truly. She may be moulded by his wishes. She may grow into the woman he wants. But, again, she may not. There may come a strong individual development, a great awakening some day. And then, there may be a tragedy. There is always this probability in the wife of sixteen.

All of us change. We are continually growing and developing. But at twenty-two or twenty-five, a woman is apt to know a little more surely what she wants of life. She is a little more likely to have set her feet in the direction in which she wishes to go. She realizes more clearly what marriage means. She knows what she is doing in shouldering its responsibilities.

So it would seem as if this man ought to wait for his little girl to grow up. They can be friends. He can watch her development. And the probability is, if he is the right kind of man, she will come to care for him very deeply. And such an association for several years will bring him a deeper satisfaction in marriage than that of merely "settling down."

LEFT-OVER WHITES OR YOLKS OF EGGS.

If eggs are washed in cold water before breaking, the shells are ready for clearing soup, jelly or coffee. If out of salad dressing, take equal quantities of beaten egg yolks and mild vinegar; cook together until thick, fold in a beaten white or two and set away in a cool place for salad dressing. Add any desired seasoning to a portion, and with a little whipped cream an ideal salad dressing may always be had.

Little Gold Cakes.—Cream 1/2 tablespoonful of butter, add a half cup of sugar and the beaten yolks of four eggs; beat hard. Dissolve an eighth of a teaspoonful of soda in a very little hot water; add a fourth of a cup of sour cream, a bit of salt and nutmeg. Bake in small tins. Frost, when cold, and place a candied cherry on top of each.

Scrambled Eggs.—Prepare crisp dry toast. Beat the yolks of three eggs and a whole egg lightly; add two tablespoonfuls of bacon cut in bits and a half cup of milk. Melt a half tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan, add the egg mixture and cook lightly. Dip toast in hot milk. Lay on a platter and pour over the scrambled eggs.

Apple and Ginger Fluff.—For a half cup of left-over whites use two-thirds of a cup of sifted apple, one-fourth of a cup of powdered sugar, a pinch of salt and a tablespoonful of crystallized ginger cut fine. Bake apples or apple sauce, put through a strainer. Beat eggs very stiff, add salt, ginger, sugar and a little apple at a time, beating very hard. Mix in a glass dish and put in a cool place until ready to serve.

Blanc Manger.—Scald a pint of milk, add five tablespoonfuls of cornstarch blended with a little cold milk; cook for ten minutes. Add a tablespoonful of sugar and a pinch of salt. Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff and fold into the cornstarch mixture. Mold and serve cold with sugar and cream.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE IRRELEVANT SEX.

MRS. EMILY BISHOP, a noted champion of women, their rights and their abilities, confessed the other day that in one particular women are not the equal of the other sex, and that was in the matter of relevance of thought. "Women," confessed Mrs. Bishop, "are naturally irrelevant."

How about it, Mrs. American woman? Do you own the "soft impeachment?" I really think you should.

For although I also am a sturdy champion of my sex, I must confess that I also have frequently been tried by the irrelevance of womankind.

Let us play the harmless eavesdropper at an average family dinner table. The husband and father is talking about a distinguished visitor who came to his office that day. The story is so interesting that his young son actually suspends the business of eating to listen. The wife hears him at first with an appearance of interest, but in a moment or two, the peculiar expression comes across her face that someone has aptly called "housewife's eye." Her husband concludes his story, and her comment is, "Wasn't that nice?" "John DID this absent-mindedly, and then with fervor, 'John DID you remember to bring home that extra umbrella you took?'"

Women sometimes complain because their husbands do not tell them more about their business interests and what they see in the big world. I wonder if experiences like these may not have something to do with such reluctance.

At a home where I sometimes visit, all table conversation is punctuated well nigh to extinction by the housemother's well meant interruptions. No matter what anyone—guest or member of the family—may be saying, he is likely to be interrupted, or at least answered by "Now, do have some more pudding," "James, why don't you give Mrs. C. some more potatoes?" etc., etc. There is no doubt whatever that this good woman's intentions are the best in the world, but her attention most emphatically is not, and the two really need not be incompatible.

In a very clever essay on the danger of being too good a housewife, a modern writer explains the feminine habit of irrelevance thus: "Realizing that there is no hour in the twenty-four when the boiler may not burst, the little ones malm themselves or trademans present hypothetical bills, she soon learns that she must either abandon the home in some greater or less particular, or give up all forms of concentrated thought." She usually chooses the latter alternative. This explains her strangely vague and intermittent attention. This is why she touches even the subjects of ordinary conversation as lightly as a humming bird, which knows, if humming birds do know such things, that at any moment it may have to go whirling away to its collar or its medicine chest. "You drop in to tea," the silver is bright, the food delicious, yet your hostess sees not you, but the dent in the tea-kettle; hears not you but the voice of a strange man in the kitchen."

I think we have all known this type of woman; perhaps we have visited her; perhaps we sit across the table from her; perhaps we even sit in her chair. How about it?

Take Warning. Opportunity knocked loudly at the man's door. But the man was busy discussing on pines, their habits and habits. He opportunely grained and ambled along.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Cheap Plowing. Recent experiments in a Lincolnshire, England, stubble field demonstrate that plowing six inches deep can be done by paraffin-engine traction at an average cost of 50 cents an acre.

DINNER STORIES

A wandering peddler stopped at a Southern cabin and opened his pack. "Mammy, let me show you self-raising umbrellas," he began.

"No use, mammy, no use," interrupted the old colored woman as she bustled herself about a boiler of clothes. "Cayn't use nothing lak dat."

"How about self-raising window shades?"

"No good head, kase dey ah't any windows wuff talkin' about."

"Self-raising buckshot?"

"No good to me—we eat cohn pone, but, mister."

"Well, mammy?"

"If you'll tell me how to tuh'n dese head-folken had chillun into self-raising pickaninnyes Ah'll be yo' frien' for life, dat Ah will, sah."

Speaker Champ Clark has revived the old custom of conferring titles on all members of congress. Every man he summons to the chair to preside over the committee of the whole is designated as the "gentleman from Kentucky, Colonel Blank."

The practice has been adopted by the employees at the house, and of the capitol, and there is no number of the house or attaché thereof so insignificant as to escape a title.

Representative Doughton, of North Carolina, thought the limit had been reached, however, when he heard a dinky brush-boy calling Representative James William Collier, of Vicksburg, Miss., "Major." Mr. Collier was born in 1872.

"What are you the major of?" asked Mr. Doughton. "Major of militia or what? Where did you get a military title, anyhow?"

"Fighting," answered Mr. Collier. "Fighting what?" demanded Mr. Doughton.

"Fighting to get to Congress," answered Collier.

"I expect to be brevetted for fighting to stay here."

Speaker Champ Clark has revived the old custom of conferring titles on all members of congress. Every man he summons to the chair to preside over the committee of the whole is designated as the "gentleman from Kentucky, Colonel Blank."

The practice has been adopted by the employees at the house, and of the capitol, and there is no number of the house or attaché thereof so insignificant as to escape a title.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, May 17, 1872.—Application for license: Nine teen applications have been made for liquor license and nineteen hundred dollars have been deposited with the city treasurer as the price of those documents. Under the decision of the council, fixing the fee at one hundred dollars, this was necessary before that body could take action in the premises, but we understand that a majority of the applications were made under the assurance that the fee would be reduced and that one-half of the deposit would be returned.

Brief Items: An adjourned meeting of the council will be held this evening to consider license business. The Madison household is now in the hands of the government, its former owners having vacated, and gone to Turtle village to live. The first strawberries of the season appeared in the market yesterday. Forty cents per quart brought them. The east side steamer was out last evening towing its hose, which has lain in the house for some time and was not considered reliable. The result of the trial demonstrated the weakness of the hose. There is a report which we cannot trace to any reliable source, that Krosch, who fired the wooden buildings which formerly occupied the site of Fredendall's block, has been pardoned by the governor. An effort was made to secure some item about it to secure his release from prison. Frank E. Follows of the Janesville Commercial College, was married last evening, to Miss Carrie Lloyd. The happy couple started for St. Paul on the 11:15 train. At the meeting of the common council last night, Alderman Martin moved a reconsideration of the vote of the previous meeting for a hundred dollar liquor license, and his motion was carried. On motion of Ald. McIntire, the further consideration of the license matter was postponed until the next meeting of the council. Alderman Eldredge moved that when the council adjourns it be to Friday night, and that license be the special order of the meeting.

Later in the evening TALKING marketplace, pointing out a "careful" finger at the statesmen in two cases; saying, bitter things of strangers who have never done us harm, pointing out the nation's dangers, viewing over with alarm. Let us talk and keep on talking till we have a chance to disagree, when I'll try to knock your block in, and you'll clamor over me; let us keep our lungs in focus like a pair of dippy dubs, till the powers come and speak us with their ligament villos clubs.

Let us sit a while discussing politics, O friend of mine, Shere, the whole world seems a-fishing. It is time we fell in line, Let us give the trusts a trouncing, since they've caused an overy hand; let us thrash around denouncing things we do not understand, Let our fervent fireless tooling in the public ear be dimmed; they are best at clouting who are best supplied with wind, and the less we know of topics all the louder should we talk, till from Greenland to the tropics we shall give the world a shock. AID IN THE MATTER

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.

There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement offering golden opportunities and those gaseous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.

Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience.

But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.

The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By
GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1911, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"Well, I wouldn't brag on myself."
"That was poor taste," admitted Elmore; "but, you see, it is a case of whistling to keep up my courage. I honestly could see that I would have

"I haven't a cent, and can't get one!"
looked just as well as the rest of them if I had been dressed as they were. We can't afford that, so I have to find something else to brace me. It was pretty bad, mother."

"Well, I'm glad you got enough of it."
"Oh, but I haven't!" hurried on Elmore. "I just got a start. The hardiest is over. Tomorrow they won't be surprised. They will know what to expect. I am sorry to hear about the dredge. Is it really going through?"
"Yes, I got my notification today. The tax will be something enormous. I don't know as I can spare you, even if you are willing to be a laughing stock for the town."

"I have had two startling pieces of news today," said Elmore. "I did not know I would need any money. I thought the city furnished the books, and there is an out of town tuition also. I need $10 in the morning. Will you please let me have it?"
"Ten dollars?" cried Mrs. Comstock. "Ten dollars! Why don't you say a hundred and be done with it? I could get one as easy as the other. I know what you would run into! But you are so building stubborn and set in your way I thought I would just let you try the world a little and see how you liked it."

Elmore pushed back her chair and looked at her mother.
"Do you mean to say," she demanded, "that you knew when you let me go into a city classroom, and reveal the fact before all of them, that I expected to have my books handed-out to me? Do you mean to say that you knew I had to pay for them?"
Mrs. Comstock evaded the direct question.
"Anybody but an idiot mooning over a book or wasting time prowling the woods would have known you had to pay. Of course, I knew you would come home blubbering! But you don't get a penny! I haven't a cent, and can't get one! Have your way if you are determined, but I think you will find the road pretty rocky."
"Swampy, you mean, mother," corrected Elmore. She arose white and trembling. "Perhaps some day God will teach me how to understand you. I know I do not now. You can't possibly realize just what you let me go through today, or how you let me go, but I'll tell you this. You understand enough that if you had the money and would offer it to me I wouldn't touch it now. And I'll tell you this much more. I'll get it myself. I'll raise it and do it some honest way. I am going back tomorrow. The next day and the next. You need not come out. I'll do the night work and hoo the turnip."

It was 10 o'clock when the chickens, pigs and cattle were fed, the turkeys hoed, and a heap of bean vines was stacked by the back door.
Wesley Sinton walked down the road a half mile and turned in at the lane leading to his home. His heart was hot and filled with indignation. He had told Elmore he did not blame her mother, but he did. His wife met him at the door.
"Did you see anything of Elmore, Wesley?" she questioned.
"Most too much, Maggie," he answered. "What do you say to going to town? There's a few things has to be got right away."
"Where did you see her, Wesley?"
"Along the old Limberlost trail, my girl, torn to pieces sobbing. Her courage always has been fine, but the thing she met today was too much for her. We ought to have known better than to let her go that way. I ought to have gone in and seen about this school business. I'm no man to let a fatherless girl run into such trouble. Don't cry, Maggie. Get me some supper and I'll hitch up and see what we can do now."

"What can we do, Wesley?"
"I don't just know. But we've got to do something. Kate Comstock will be a handful, while Elmore will be two, but between us we must see that the girl is not too hard pressed about money and that she is dressed as she is not ridiculous. She's saved us the wages of a woman many a day. Can't you make her some decent dresses, Maggie?"
"Well, I'm not just what you call expert, but I could beat Kate Comstock all to pieces. I know that skirts should be plaited to the band instead of gathered and full enough to sit in and short enough to walk in. I could try. There's patterns for sale. Let's go right away, Wesley."

"Well, set me a bit of supper while I hitch up."
They drove toward the city through the beautiful September evening, and as they went they planned for Elmore. The only trouble was not whether they were generous enough to get what she needed, but whether she would accept what they got and what her mother would say.

"They went to a large dry goods store, and when a clerk asked what they wanted to see neither of them knew, so they stepped to one side and held a whispered consultation.
"What had we better get, Wesley?"
"Best if I know," exclaimed Wesley. "I thought you would manage that. I know about some things I'm going to get."
At that instant several schoolgirls came into the store and approached them.

"There!" exclaimed Wesley breathlessly. "There, Maggie! Like that! That's what she needs! Buy like they have!"
Before she knew it Margaret was among them.
"I beg your pardon, girls, but won't you wait a minute?" she asked.
The girls stopped with wondering faces.

"It's your clothes," explained Mrs. Sinton. "You look just beautiful to me. You look exactly as I should have wanted to see my girls. They both died of diphtheria when they were little. If they had lived they'd been near your age now, and I'd want them to look like you. I know a girl who would be just as pretty as any of you if she had the clothes, but her mother does not think about her, so I got to mother her some myself."
"She must be a lucky girl," said one girl.

"Oh, she loves me," said Margaret, "and I love her. I want her to look just like you do. Please tell me about your clothes. Are these the dresses and hats you wear to school? What kind of goods are they and where do you buy them?"
The girls began to laugh and cluster around Margaret. Wesley Sinton strode down the store with his head high in pride of her, but his heart was sore over the memory of two little faces under Brushwood sod. He followed his way to the shoe department.

"Why, every one of us have on gingham or linen dresses," they said, "and they are our school clothes."
For a few moments there was a babel of laughing voices explaining to the delighted Margaret that school dresses should be bright and pretty, but simple and plain and built cold weather they should wash.

"I'll tell you," said Ellen Brownlee, "my father owns this store. I know all the clerks. I'll take you to Miss Hartley. You tell her just how much you want to spend and what you want to buy, and she will know how to get the most for your money."
"That's the very thing," agreed Margaret. "But before you go tell me about your hair. Elmore's hair is bright and wavy, but yours is silky as hickled flax. How do you do it?"
"Elmore?" asked four girls in concert.

"Yes, Elmore is the name of the girl I want these things for."
"Did she come to the high school today?" questioned one of them.
"Was she in your classes?" demanded Margaret without reply.
Four girls stood silent and thought fast. And there been a strange girl among them, and had she been over-looked and passed by with indifference because she was so very shabby? If she had appeared as much better than they as she had looked worse would her reception have been the same?

"There was a strange girl from the country in the freshman class today," said Ellen Brownlee, "and her name was Elmore."
"That was the girl," said Margaret.
"Are her people so very poor?" questioned Ellen.

"No, not poor at all, come to think of it," answered Margaret. "It's a peculiar case. Mrs. Comstock had a great trouble, and she let it change her whole life and make a different woman of her. She used to be lovely, but all she does now is droop all day and walk the edge of the swamp half the night and neglect Elmore. If you girls would make life just a little easier for her it would be the finest thing you ever did."

All of them promised they would.
"Now tell me about your hair," persisted Margaret Sinton.
So they took her to a toilet counter, and she bought the proper hair soap, and a nail file and cold cream for use on windy days. Then they left her with the experienced clerk, and when at last Wesley found her she was loaded with bundles, and the glint of other days was in her beautiful eyes. Wesley carried some packages also.
"Come on, now, let's get home," he said.

CHAPTER III: Wherein, Elmore Procures Her Books and Finds Means of Earning Money.

ALL the way home Wesley and Margaret Sinton discussed how they should give Elmore their purchases and what Mrs. Comstock would say.
"I am afraid she will be awful mad," said Margaret Sinton tremulously.
"She'll just rip," replied Wesley gracefully. "But if she wants to leave the raising of her girl to the neighbors she needn't get fractious. If they take some pride in doing a good job. From now on I calculate Elmore shall go to school, and she shall have all the clothes and books she needs. If I go around on the back of Kate Comstock's land and cut a tree or drive off a calf to pay for them. Why I know one tree she owns that would put Elmore in heaven for a year. Just think of it, Margaret! It's not fair. One-third of what is there belongs to Elmore by law, and if Kate Comstock raises a row I'll tell her so and see that the girl gets it. You go to see Kate in the morning, and I'll go to see you. Tell her you want Elmore's pattern, that you are going to make her a dress for helping us. And sort of hint at a few more things. If Kate balks I'll take a hand and settle her. I'll go to law for Elmore's share of that, and then she can take her share."

"Why, Wesley Sinton, you're perfect!"
"I'm not! Did you ever stop to think that such cases are so frequent there that have been laws made to provide for them? I can bring it up in court, and force Kate to educate Elmore and board and clothe her till she's of age, and then she can take her own share."

"Wesley, Kate would go crazy!"
"She's crazy now. The idea of any mother living with as sweet a girl as Elmore and letting her suffer till I find her crying like a funeral! It makes me shiver and shiver!"
When Wesley came from the barn Margaret had four pieces of crisp gingham, a pale blue, a pink, a gray with green stripes, and a rich brown and blue plaid. On each of them lay a yard and a half of wide ribbon to match. There were handkerchiefs and a brown leather belt. In her hands she held a wide brimmed straw hat having a high crown banded with velvet strips, each of which fastened with a tiny gold buckle.
"It looks kind of bare now," she explained. "It had three quills on it here. The price was two and a half for the hat, and those things were a dollar and a dollar and a half apiece. I couldn't pay that."
"It does seem considerable," admitted Wesley. "But will it look right without them?"
"No, it won't!" said Margaret. "It's going to have quills on it. Do you remember those beautiful peacock wing feathers that Phoebe Simms gave me? Three of them go on just where those came off, and nobody will ever know the difference. They match the hat to a marvel, and they are just a little longer and richer than the ones that I had taken off. I was wondering whether I better say them on tonight while I remember how they set, or wait till morning."

"Don't risk it!" exclaimed Wesley anxiously. "Don't risk it! Set them on right now!"
"Open your bundles, while I get the thread," said Margaret.
Wesley set out a pair of shoes. Margaret took them up and plucked the leather and stroked them.
"My, but they are pretty!" she cried.
"What else did you get?"
"Well, sir," said Wesley, "I saw something today. You told me about Kate getting that tin pull for Elmore to carry to high school, and you said you told her it was a shame. So I just inquired around till I found this, and I think it's about the ticket. Decent looking and handy as you please. See here, now."

BEWARE OF "LOWERED RESISTANCE" IN FASTING.

The "Hospital" says that while fasting, is undoubtedly beneficial in many cases, there are many in which it would be injurious. The determining factor of many acute disorders is probably a lowering of the resistance and in some cases a long period without food may be one of the causes of this. This is only one of the objections to indiscriminate fasting; now so generally lauded on account of the wonderful benefit received in many cases. Any physician who has had experience in the use of fasting as a general remedy will admit that there is as much to be learned about its application as about any other therapeutic measure and that it must be wisely regulated if it is to be beneficial. In all cases it should be conducted under the direction of a physician.

Advocates Leaves of Soap.
A chemical friend of the Scientific American suggests that a campaign be started against the common cake of soap. About 60 years ago, there was sold a form of soap for travelers, consisting of a booklet, about two inches by four inches, in which small leaves of soap paper, saturated with soap were bound. Each leaf contained enough soap for one washing of the hands. It is suggested that one might profitably dispense, through a penny-in-the-slot machine, a paper towel in which is folded a sheet of soap paper, for convenient use in public lavatories.

Don't Be Nervous and Run-Down

New Tonic Tona Vita, Will Positively Restore Your Old Vitality.
Nervousness, depression of spirits, lack of energy, all run down, these are the chief symptoms of nervous debility, the modern affliction caused largely by the rush, bustle, and worry of modern life.
If you are a sufferer from this all too common complaint and cannot go to a high priced sanitarium to have rest and diet build you up, you should read carefully the following statement by C. N. Hunt, Esq., of 602 Sixtieth, Milwaukee, Wis., concerning the remarkable new tonic "Tona Vita" that has made such a great record during the past year. Mr. Hunt says: "For a number of years my wife has been a sufferer from a continuous run down nervous condition and stomach trouble. I took her to a number of doctors, but none seemed to give her any relief. She grew constantly worse and her entire system became affected.
"She could hardly eat anything and would say the very thought of eating made her sick. She caught one bad cold after another and was always tired and languid. She had had headaches and attacks of dizziness.
"I got some 'Tona Vita' a few months ago. My wife began taking the tonic that night, and in the morning she was pleasantly surprised to notice an improvement after the second day. She is now like a different woman. The nervousness and depression are all gone, and she eats and sleeps better than she has for years. It seems wonderful to note such a change in her. I believe 'Tona Vita' is worth its weight in gold.
"If you are debilitated and run down, above all things try 'Tona Vita.' You will never regret it. It will build you up like magic. It is the finest preparation now on the market.
"Smith Drug Co. has the agency for this great medicine in Janesville. The price will be returned if it doesn't meet with your entire approval." The Approved Formula Co., Dayton, O.

WATER-POWER RIGHT
WILL BE AN ISSUE

Senator Paul O. Husting Opposed to Granting Away Franchises in Perpetuity to State Concerns.

In the opinion of Senator Paul O. Husting of Mayville, who has spent two years as a member of the legislative committee investigating the waterpower situation in Wisconsin, legislation along this line will be the most important to be enacted at the next session of the legislature. He thinks it will be a potent issue in the state campaign now approaching. At the special session Senator Husting introduced a bill to regulate waterpower which incurred the bitter opposition of waterpower men. Its defeat was accomplished by a majority of two votes.

"The state ought never to grant away in perpetuity any waterpower franchises," said Senator Husting today, "but should either reserve the right of reversion and appeal at pleasure, or should grant such franchises for a definite period only. Such period should be no longer than is required for reasonable safety of investment. In my opinion, such period should not be for a longer term than twenty years, with the privilege of continuance of two further and successive terms of ten years each, each at the option of the grantee. The state should reserve the right to readjust the franchise fee. This provision is of the first importance, and a franchise, being in the nature of a contract, the legislature should assume to make a contract of franchise which would continue forever.

Mr. Husting was asked if he considered the granting of franchises in perpetuity as a mortgage on the future. To this he replied that future legislatures should have the right to make contracts which may meet the requirements of their time.

"From what occurred at the special session it is fair to assume," said Senator Husting, "that the waterpower interests hope to secure and will exert every effort to secure an enactment of a law at the next legislature granting them rights in perpetuity and forever, taking out of the hands of future legislatures the rights to alter, amend or repeal the same. Therefore the people at the coming election should demand that every candidate for the legislature and for congress declare where he stands on this important issue. No such franchise should be granted without giving the right of eminent domain. No adequate improvements of navigation or development of waterpower can be obtained without such rights."

Mr. Husting contended today that a reasonable franchise fee should be imposed for the purpose of defraying the expense of supervision and inspection of the dams constructed under a franchise from the state. He declared that this is necessary to insure public safety and to gain the ends aimed at by the grant of franchises, namely, the improvement of navigation and the development of hydraulic power for other public purposes. The state should also reserve the right to impose an additional fee, he contended, for the improvement of reservoirs upon the headwaters of the great lakes. He was strongly of the opinion that no franchise should be issued by the state except upon notice duly given to all parties interested, with a public hearing before the state railroad commission.

Realizing that many of the cities of the state are coming to favor municipal ownership, Senator Husting declared that the state should reserve to itself, whenever it shall the constitutional power, the right to take over and condemn any waterpower for a public purpose whenever the public needs require it.

NORWEGIANS OBSERVE
INDEPENDENCE DAY

Ninety-Eighth Anniversary of Promulgation of Constitution Made Occasion for Celebrations.

"Sjunde Mai," Norway's national holiday, commemorating the promulgation of the constitution by a popular assembly at Eidsvoll ninety-eight years ago, was celebrated today by thousands of Norwegians in the mother country, in the United States, and on the vessels which carry the Norwegian flag into almost every port in the world. Janesville Norwegians, being but comparatively few in number, have arranged no special festivities for the occasion, but the day is remembered in various ways, a number going to Stockholm and Helelt to take part in the celebrations. In many Norwegian centers in Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas the festivities in observance of the anniversary will continue over Saturday and Sunday.

Difficulties of Reform.

"Reform," remarked Farmer Cornsaw, "is something that has to be approached with great caution and perplexity." "Yet you must admit that we need reform." "Yes, but so does that colt. Only every time I start to reform him he lames himself, breaks the spring wagon and gives the whole family nervous prostration."

LAST OF CROP NOW
TAKEN FROM POLES

Latest Casing Period in History of Wisconsin Tobacco Growing Means Loss to Farmers.

A continuous rainy spell during the week has at last produced the necessary casing conditions and enabled the belated tobacco growers to take down and strip the last of their hanging tobacco, says the Edgerton Reporter. Never before in the history of this state have the farmers who missed the first casing spell in the fall been compelled to wait until late May to remove their crop from the sheds and even though such an exceptional season may not occur again for years, the experience will serve as a lesson that growers will not fail to profit by. They have learned that the proper time to take down the crop from the curing sheds is at the first casing spell after the tobacco is thoroughly cured out. They have also learned that leaf which has hung in the sheds through a cold hard winter and the drying spring winds is not only considerably broken but much of the life and elasticity of the leaf is dried out and the finish never comes back after it is packed into cases and passed through the sweat.

The deterioration has been so marked this season that but few deliveries of the late hanging crops have been accepted at the contract price. Where artificial means were used to bring the tobacco into case it has been very difficult to secure an even and satisfactory condition, and in some instances whole crops have been spoiled by stemming or sprinkling. The natural absorption of the moisture seems about the only good method to bring tobacco into case, and judgment gained by experience is the guide for the successful tobacco grower after all.

The past week has not been so favorable to the young plants in the seed beds owing to the cold weather. Growers report that the stand in all that could be desired and a period of warm weather with plenty of sun is all that is needed to hurry the plants so that they will be large enough for transplanting at the usual time.

THE "PERFECT" BABY.

At the Iowa state fair, after a contest, one baby was declared to be the most perfect in the state.

In the contest for "good points" many babies were weighed and measured and tested for proportion, vitality, touch, taste and hearing.

The test was "scientific."

On a scale of 100 there were so many marks for weight, measurement, health, looks, teeth, hair, etc. "The babies' intelligence was discovered by their interest in a phonograph, or a watch held up, or some such proof."

The one baby was pronounced the perfect one by means of scale and tape and "laboratory test."

So far so good.

But—

Who can tell what may be the outcome of that "perfect" baby? Often times the weakest babe turns out to be the strongest or most intelligent individual.

The infant whose brain is excessively developed requires more than the average of blood for that organ, leaving the rest of the body weak.

Or—

The "perfect" baby physically may be weak mentally because the blood is demanded for the body to the exclusion of the brain. Also—

You see, there are many things, like heredity and environment, entering into the evolution of a human being. It is difficult to prophesy the destiny of a babe.

You can size up a young colt or a colt pup by ordinary tests.

A babe is different.

You cannot tell what may be the development of a human body through judicious care and training, or what quality of gray matter may be hidden away in the small brain pan of an infant.

Some of the strongest and ablest men and women have been weak as babies. The main thing is to—

Give the baby a chance.

You cannot tell what possibilities are wrapped up in that little of humanity. Properly nourished and given plenty of pure air, day and night, the puny, pulling baby may develop into an athlete or a genius.

If the baby is frail it is no sign that it will grow into a physical or mental weakling.

The "perfect" baby has yet to be born.

Bushido.

Bushido, in a word, is the popular literature of the mikado's realm. It includes country theatricals, tales of story tellers and musical compositions. It is not only a literature; it is an idea and an ideal. The word means loyalty, fidelity, devotion and it may be expressed in dozens of different ways.

In the Presence of Death.

A peculiar importance attaches to the words of a dying man, for then all self-consciousness drops away and the innermost feelings are laid bare; there is no further need for the concealment of what a man may be justly proud, and the ideal of a life-time, hidden away just because it was so sacred, so entirely the man's own self, is brought unreservedly to the light of day.

Beginning at the foundation.

The progressive people of the parish were anxious to reconstruct and adorn the ancient church and the senior warden wrote to the bishop about it. "There are but two things to be done in St. Gregory's," wrote the bishop, in reply: "let the sexton keep it clean and the parson keep it full."—Youth's Companion.

PIANOS OF QUALITY

There is some difference between pianos of quality and the cheap piano. The cheap piano you can buy at most any cut price from $350 down to $130 or $140, and still there is good profit for the dealer who sells that kind of pianos. It only costs these manufacturers $65 to $70 to make such pianos and then sell them at what they call factory prices, $130 to $140. Is not this good profit? I should say yes, and they claim that they are worth $300 to $400, and selling at a great cut price, $130 to $140. These pianos are dear at any price, and made for piano sales.

Pianos of quality are far different pianos. In the first place the manufacturers use the best material for inside as well as outside, and take ample time in construction to bring out a beautiful tone, which will be musical, and a lasting tone, that will really improve with age. Next comes the action which must be of the best in quality to insure long wear to the piano. This kind of a piano brings entire satisfaction to the buyer.

Now, which kind of a piano do you wish to buy, a piano of quality or a cheap piano? The market is full of both kinds. Will you pay $130 to $140 for a cheap piano, or will you pay $250 to $350 for a piano of quality, one that will be a joy to your home and family? Think this over carefully before you buy. Come to our piano rooms and see and hear the pianos of quality, and you will not get left in regard to tone and durability or even the price.

All of our pianos of quality come direct from the manufacturers, no jobbers or middle men to deal with, and we can save you money on good pianos if that is the kind you wish to buy. We can sell you cheap pianos if that is your desire, but must order them from the factories which make that kind of pianos, and they all have a ten year guarantee, but not a guarantee for a musical sweet tone. If you want a tin pan piano, we will get them from the factories who make them. But we advise you not to buy them because of the low price. Take our advice and buy a good piano—the kind that we sell.

YOU may know exactly what you want in a suit; the color, pattern, cut. Or you may not have made up your mind just what it shall be.

In either case come in here and look around. If you know what you want, you'll see it; if you don't know, you'll want some of the things you see.

UNUSUAL VALUES

Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

You are acquainted with these goods, but unless you've been here to see what we have to show in them, you don't know how great the values are. An enormous range of new fabrics made in the best styles, with the most perfect hand-tailoring, things produced exclusively for us; $20, $25, $30, $35.

WE PLEASE THE YOUNG MEN

Young men's styles have to be different; individual, smart in the extreme without loss of dignity; young in weave, color, pattern and cut; we make a specialty of doing and having things just right. Most of you young fellows know it. Suits ..... $15.00 to $35.00

You might make a mistake of thinking because we ask only $15 for suits which we say are worth $20 that the other $5 worth of value isn't there. Don't. They're not only worth that much more in quality, but the extra distinctiveness of pattern and weave is in them.

Lots of action in the shirt section these days; men are discovering that this is an unusual shirt store, unusual in its values, its distinctive patterns, its large displays. About the very best shirt "buys" we know of are these shirts at $1.50; they're way above the ordinary.

Your hat needn't be the common, conventional style unless you prefer that. We've a lot of new, snappy "slants" in this hat proposition made for the smart young fellows who want them ..... $3.00 to $5.00.
